UNDERGRADUATE COURSE DESCRIPTION

Term: Spring 2017
Instructor: Dr. Robert Masson
Course #: THEO 1001H
Section: 901
Course Title: Honors Introduction to Theology

Description:

This section of the introduction to theology is adapted to provide a more interactive classroom dynamic and shared inquiry for honors students. It shares the readings and themes mandated for all sections of Theo 1001, and some elements of the team-taught 1001. The focus of inquiry — how God became "Black" and Jesus "White" — aims to highlight that theology's goal is not merely, or even primarily, to provide additional or novel information about the world or God, but rather to understand how religions prompt for ways of understanding and acting that tectonically alter conventional thinking and behavior.
