13th Annual Marquette University & Loyola University Chicago
Graduate Student Colloquium:
Christology in Interdisciplinary Perspective

February 21, 2015 – Marquette Hall, Marquette University

Coffee and Refreshments 9:00 – 9:30 am, Room 111

Plenary Session | 9:30 – 10:30 am | Room 105
The Christology of the Scribes: Scribal Habits in the Synoptic Gospels
Cambry Pardee – Loyola University Chicago
Response: Nathan Thiel – Marquette University

Breakout Session I 10:45 – 11:30

Room 109
Setting the Captives Free: Challenging Sobrino and Cone’s Rejection of Patristic High Christology
D. Glenn Butner – Marquette University
Response: Kathleen McNutt - Loyola University Chicago

Room 104
Augustine and Hilary: Names, Birth, and Substance
Amy Heck – Wheaton Center for Early Christian Studies
Response: Tikhon Pino - Marquette University

Lunch | 11:30 – 1:00

Panel Discussion: Directions in Christology | 1:00 – 2:30 | Room 105

‘The Son of God, Inadequately but Earnestly Rendered’: Christology Within An Authentic Post-Enlightenment Context
Michel René Barnes – Associate Professor, Marquette University

To Which Christ Do You Pray? A Theological Reflection on 21st Century Representations of Christ.
Meghan Toomey – Ph.D. Student, Loyola University Chicago

Beauty, Goodness, Truth: The Temple and the Christ
Richard J. Barry IV – Ph.D. Candidate, Marquette University

The Dynamics of Salvation: The Logic of the Cross.
Peter J. Bernardi, S.J. – Associate Professor, Loyola University Chicago
Breakout Session II 2:45 – 3:30

Room 109
The Contribution of Hebrews to Liberation Theology
Wesley Dingman – Loyola University Chicago
Response: Alexandre Martins - Marquette University

Room 104
A Christologically shaped lens for the discussion of disability: Rethinking the able-normative theological vision
Ashley Smith – Wheaton University
Response: Catherine Buescher – Loyola University Chicago

Breakout Session III 3:45 – 4:30

Room 109
What Does Sex Difference Have to Do with Gender? Philosophical and Neuroscientific Perspectives
Timothy Perron – Loyola University Chicago
Response: Kirsten Laurel Guidero – Marquette University

Room 104
Christ in Flesh and Dust: Ethical Implications of Irenaeus’ Christology
David Kiger – Marquette University
Response: Wendy Crosby - Loyola University Chicago

Plenary Session | 4:45 – 5:45 | Room 105

Gerard Manley Hopkins’s Incarnational Vision of Creation and Redemption—Avenues of Appropriation for Contemporary Theology
Wesley Biddy – Marquette University
Response: Brent Little – Loyola University Chicago